

The Bulls will play against Orlando Magic. The next NBA matches this weekend

An exciting weekend awaits the basketball fans. After a very successful start of the season, the expectations of the Bulls' fans are increasing. No wonder, since after two matches played in good style the Chicago Bulls players gathered a full set of points.

Tonight the team from Chicago will face a strong squad of Detroit Pistons in an away game. Additionally on Sunday they will play a home against Orlando Magic.

There were a lot of opinions before this season that Chicago Bulls need time to improve their team. They were led by a new coach, who completely changed their game style. Even though there were not many squad changes, it was difficult to point out the players that could lead the Bulls to victories. Derrick Rose seemed to be a natural leader. However, before the season started, he had a serious injury and questions were raised regarding his condition. In the opening matches for the regular season, Rose played wearing a special mask. It didn't have a negative impact on his game. In matches against Cleveland Cavaliers and Brooklyn Nets, he scored 33 points. His performance was better and better with every minute. Thus, the fans hope that his shape will soon be close to the one from 2011, when he was chosen the MVP the season. Time should work to the advantage of not only this player, but the whole team.

Pau Gasol also did not work with the team during the preparation period. This player won the European Championship with Spanish national team and was also chosen the MVP of the tournament. However, it affected his shape during the league's opening at the United Center. He scored only 2 points against the Cavaliers. If he did not block the opponent in the last seconds of the game and guaranteed the Bulls a two-point victory, his appearance would be practically meaningless. However, in the next meeting we could watch Gasol as one of the team's most important players. In a game against the Brooklyn Nets his game was effective in defence, as well as in the attack. He scored 16 points and had 9 collections.

Jimmy Butler is also in a good shape. Signing a superstar contract with the Bulls apparently helped him to focus more on the trainings. In a recent match he scored 24 points. Nikola Mirotić has also good statistics. In two recent matches he scored the total of 37 points and had 9 collections.

According to the bookies, the Bulls are not the favourites of the away game against the Detroit Pistons. The opponents have already won two games. In this case, the substitute players should be a key to the victory. If the coach makes effective changes in the line up, the points achieved by the substitutes can decide about the final result. The Sunday game also seems promising. The match will start at 1.00 am of Polish time. Chicago Bulls will face the Orlando Magic in a home game. The season did not start for this team as their fans would wish to. The opponents will most likely set the bar high. This may guarantee the emotions until the end.
